Du Pont expansion to provide new jobs at DeLisle facility

BY DENA BISNETTE
A multi-million dollar expansion at the Du Pont Company's DeLisle plant on the Bay of St. Louis is expected to provide about 50 permanent jobs and about 650 jobs during the construction phase.
Some additional impact is expected at Port Bienville Industrial Park in Ansley, where Du Pont uses several services.
At a press conference Thursday that included telephoned comments from Congressman Trent Lott and Governor Ray Mabus and remarks from Bobby Eleuterius of the Harrison County Development Commission, Plant Manager Ronald B. Root explained that the project is expected to have a positive economic impact on Hancock County as well as Harrison County.
The project calls for the addition of a second production line for the DeLisle plant's main product, titanium dioxide marketed under the name "Ti-Pure" and used as a whitener in products ranging from paint and plastics to toothpaste.
Current production is about 170,000 tons annually and is expected to increase to about 270,000, beginning in late 1990, Root said.
Du Pont has about 520 workers with about 15 percent of them being from Hancock County, according to Margie M. Morken, employee relations representative. In addition, there are about 300 people at the plant who work for contractors to the plant.

Including contractors, the plant's current payroll is about $27 million each year.
David Settle, recently retired plant manager, said notification of approval for the project was sent down from Du Pont headquarters at about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.
Root said construction is expected to begin early in 1989.
According to Root, the DeLisle Plant is currently exporting about half of the Ti-Pure it makes and supplying the other half to domestic markets. That is not expected to change until after the construction of planned titanium dioxide plants in Korea, Taiwan and Brazil.
The DeLisle expansion is part of Du Pont's global expansion plan, designed to provide more of the product to both domestic and foreign markets.
Root said DeLisle, operating until 1979, was one of five U.S. Ti-Pure plants in the running for the expansion. DeLisle won the selection through teamwork on the part of DeLisle personnel and local political and economic development entities.
He, Lott and Mabus all congratulated Mississippi Power Company, the Harrison County Economic Development Commission, Pass Christian Mayor Jake Erwin and the city's board of aldermen, Harrison County Board of Supervisors and Pass Christian School Board, all of which helped develop incentives that influenced the choice of De Lisle for the new facility.
Charles M. Masten, director of the white pigment and mineral products division of the plant's chemicals and pigments division, expressed his pride in the DeLisle employees, stating that their consistently high-quality performance was one of the selection criteria.
The professional services may include studies and analyses, development of criteria for institutional facilities, and operational planning for current program support as well as future test programs at the SSC.
Two other proposals were received from Bechtel National, Inc., Oak Ridge, Tenn. and Wyle Laboratories, Huntsville, Ala.

Employment to increase 30-40

BayTech expansion to begin Tuesday

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
An increase of 30 to 40 employees is expected at Bay Technical Associates, a Bay St. Louis industry, upon completion of a plant expansion scheduled to begin on Tuesday.
The 10,000 square feet expansion to the company's facility at 200 North Second St. should take 4-6 months for completion, Charles (Chuck) Ramsey, general manager said Friday.
The addition will be at the back of the building bordered by Toulme and State Streets, and DeMontluzin Avenue.
Bay Technical Associates, Inc. also has facilities located in Waveland and Slidell.
The Bay St. Louis facility has 90 employees with a current annual payroll of $1.5 million, Ramsey stated.

The Data Communications Products Division of BayTech has been located at the Second Street location since December 1986.
BayTech is in the former Jitney Jungle building which has been completely renovated with 21,000 square feet of space now in use.
BayTech was founded in August 1976 to provide instruments and systems for acquiring data in meteorological, oceanographic and hydrographic environments.
In 1982, BayTech began its commercial, data communications business with the introduction of the first of a new breed of high-performance code-activated switching devices. Since then, BayTech's Data Communications Products Division has been a leader in the design and production of computer port expansion and data communication devices.
"The products produced in the Bay St. Louis industry are shipped worldwide. Our company has distributors in 25 countries and are sold through dealers across the United States," Ramsey said.

The Slidell plant manufactures printer circuit boards for use in the Bay St. Louis facility while the Waveland branch of the company is involved in contracts for specialized communications equipment and environmental instruments for federal and state governments and industry.
The Waveland and Slidell facilities currently have seven employees each, Ramsey said.
"Our company's engineers are continually developing new products. One of the latest is a laser printer sharing device, which will let up to four computers share one laser printer."

Ramsey also said that in January, 1988, BayTech introduced a new performance Data Exchange System, Model 24, that allows peripheral sharing, similar to computer communications and buffering of print data.
The Model 24 was designed to meet the demands of the new generation of faster computers, printers and software. Units can be expanded from four ports up to 24 ports and can be cascaded to increase the number of available ports.
The Bay St. Louis expansion was designed by John Bohlan, who will also be the general contractor, Ramsey said.
"This new addition is in part for the production of the new products developed by BayTech's engineers, as we now introduce a new product about every three months," Ramsey stated.
In June BayTech introduced Print Master II, Model 808E, which offers flexible, buffered printer sharing between com-

Special Bay schools meeting to discuss pipe discovery

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board has called a special meeting for 7 p.m. Thursday to decide what to do if pipe insulation found under Bay Junior High School contains asbestos.
Superintendent of Education Roger Oge stated Friday that the problem was reported at a special Friday afternoon meeting called to approve a change order on the renovations at the school.
The board authorized $5,000 in change orders to avoid delay of the renovations, which are being done by Starks Construction under a contract which also includes renovations at North Bay Elementary School and is part of a district-wide improvement project that also includes, under separate contracts, a recent addition to Waveland Elementary School and a planned addition to Bay Senior High School.

Oge said the insulation was discovered on old steam pipes in a long-abandoned crawlspace under the school, which is more than 50 years old. The pipes are believed to be anywhere between 40 and 50 years old.
The insulation is suspected to contain asbestos, now considered a health hazard, because they are so old. Asbestos was once a commonly used material in pipe insulation.
If tests on samples of the insulation indicate asbestos, the school district is obligated to have the material removed under the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Removal Act, the superintendent added.
Oge said he feels in this particular case that students have not been exposed to the hazard because it is under the school and that the workmen who discovered the pipes are probably the first people who have come in contact with the insulation since the crawlspace was closed.

Some additional change orders and other items may be taken up at the Thursday meeting, he added.

Water contamination is national issue

By Barry W. Jones
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Protecting the nation's groundwater has become a priority research effort on the part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In Mississippi, such a priority is important because this state is among those states that depend heavily on the availability of safe groundwater supplies for drinking water and future economic growth.

"Overall, the size of the pollution threat to safe drinking water is yet to be determined," wrote Dennis Senft in the USDA's Feb. issue of Agricultural Research magazine.

"Federal and state governments (Mississippi included) have stepped up their monitoring of drinking water. The Agricultural Research Service is concerned because some farming practices and chemical used in agriculture could be a source of groundwater pollution."

Different areas of the country face diverse threats in terms of water contamination from agriculture. Mississippi is among the high-rainfall states of the Midwest where the greatest danger comes from pesticide residues or nitrate levels.

"We need to learn more about naturally occurring salts and applied fertilizers and pesticides and how we can minimize their movement into groundwater," said ARS Scientist David A. Farrell. "Our biggest challenge today is not developing new sources of drinking water, but maintaining the purity of those we already have."

To do that, the ARS has a number of separate ongoing studies nationally looking at both the downward movement of water and chemicals including nitrates and pesticides. Nitrates are under study because of the dangers they pose in human consumption.

Senft reported that water containing more than 10 parts per million of nitrate is considered by health authorities to be unsafe for human consumption.

A sampling of the studies ARS is conducting to find ways to prevent groundwater pollution include the following:

—A procedural study in Arizona to predict downward movement of water. Preliminary results indicate that previous assumptions on water movement are in error on some soil and tillage situations.

—A Colorado study is measuring how different tillage practices and rainfall affect herbicide movement in soil.

—Researchers in Illinois are working to develop and confirm the potential for slow-release herbicides for controlling weeds while protecting groundwater.

—In neighboring Louisiana, scientists are studying the persistence, breakdown and movement of pesticides in agricultural ecosystems.

—In Maryland, a research project involves ways to break down pesticides into harmless compounds before these substances can reach surface or underground water supplies.

Conservation tillage also is beginning to have an impact on American agriculture, so the ARS has a number of conservation tillage studies underway related to groundwater contamination. Among these are:

—At Stoneville, Mississippi researchers Sidney Harper and Thomas Moorman are focusing on some of the unknowns of conservation tillage including looking to see whether this farming practice can cause changes in soil chemistry, microbiology, and water-holding characteristics of the soil. Such changes could signal a change in rates for pesticides that are held by or released from soil particles.

—Research projects in Ohio suggest that spraying techniques may not be the most environmentally sound ways to apply pesticides. These scientists are developing new spraying concepts and additives that can make pesticides stick to their target. The result would be less leaching into groundwater and savings on waste.

"We do not know all the answers," wrote Terry B. McKinney, Jr., ARS administrator, "but, it's important that we continue taking positive steps toward lasting solutions. When you consider that almost half the people in the United States are dependent on groundwater for drinking water, you can appreciate the value of the poorly understood resource."

Quotables by CUEVAS

Congratulations and best wishes go to Capt. Francis J. Ferry, USN, upon being named commander of the Naval Home in Gulfport.

I can recall the many times, I saw Capt. Ferry's father arriving or leaving Waveland for work via the commuter train at Coleman Avenue.

He and his family grew up at one end of Jeff Davis Avenue, and my brothers and I on the other end.

His family of seven brothers and sisters, along with myself and three brothers, helped fill Waveland's School bus for St. Stanislaus and St. Joseph's Academy each school day.

I know Capt. Ferry must be happy to now be stationed so close to his home town of Waveland.

This is the time of the year when many folks like to fish and I would like to remind everyone that fishing licenses expired on June 30.

It can cost quiet a few dollars if a fisherman is caught without a valid license.

It has been so hot that most anglers are either fishing early in the mornings or in the evenings.

From all I can read, health officials recommend everyone drink a lot of water during this very hot spell and avoid too much exposure to the sun without proper protection.

I know one thing is for sure, we need rain very much in our area as well as many others across the nation.

There will be some very good baseball played in Bay St. Louis on Monday when six teams are involved in three games.

Ronnie Artigues said the team members are college players from the New Orleans Recreation Department's All American League.

One of the teams will also involve several players from Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the immediate area and is sponsored by Trapani's Knock-Knock.

In Congress

By Congressman Trent Lott

FAMILY CARE

There is a consensus on Capitol Hill that Congress should do something to make child care more affordable. Maybe so, but we better proceed cautiously.

The issue of child care does need addressing. According to the Census Bureau, more than half of all mothers in the U.S. return to the workplace before their child is a year old. I think we can help.

I've cosponsored a bill in the House of Representatives to help alleviate the burden. H. R. 3944 provides benefits to all families with preschool children, instead of only to those using paid child care services. By benefits I mean tax credits, not direct payments. And this Bill assures complete freedom of choice to parents in meeting child care needs—home care, family care, church care or day care would be your choice, not the government's.

House Bill 3944 does not establish any new federal bureaucracy, vest any additional power in government agencies, nor does it create any new federal spending programs.

This bill would provide benefits, again through tax credits, directly to families. Other proposals, which I now oppose, would allocate a large percentage of federal funds to administration and other overhead costs. Put simply, government is already too big.

This is a pro-family bill, but it isn't a budget-busting bill. In my opinion both are equally important. As a matter of fact, this is the least expensive way to intervene.

If we can help our parents and do it affordably, I'm ready to support child care legislation. But I don't want the federal government in the child-raising business. Take it from me, Mom and Dad, neither do you.

HOLD THAT TAIL!—Mark Ohman, center, Bay St. Louis Police deputy chief, hangs onto the tail of an 8-ft. alligator as Chief Ray Murphy, left, and Andy Elchos, Bureau of Marine Resources officer make sure the uninvited visitor is tightly bound. The alligator was discovered Thursday morning in the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert DeBuys, Fox Drive, in the Cedar Point area of Bay St. Louis. The alligator, which Elchos had been trying to catch in the Bay for the past week, was taken to an undisclosed area for release. If found in their yards, residents are urged not to handle alligators, but to call the Bureau of Marine Resources for assistance. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Governor's Column

By Governor Ray Mabus

I would like to challenge you this week with a question: What do you expect out of your county supervisors?

In my view, supervisors should be policy makers who write the county's blueprint for the future. They should be the ones who identify and address the county's problems with an eye toward improving the quality of life for everyone.

The unit system of county government, which I hope will pass the Legislature in special session later this year, would allow our supervisors to be that kind of forward-looking public official.

But some opponents of the unit system believe a supervisor's primary job is to act as a road foreman. They argue that road maintenance and construction will decrease under the unit system of government. I want to tell you that just the opposite is true.

Road construction and maintenance will improve under the unit system. The county will save so much money that it will be able to spend more on roads without raising taxes.

Study after study has shown that the unit system saves money because the county is using its time, manpower and equipment more efficiently.

Instead of having five separate road departments—one in each district or "beat"—the county would have a central road department. That centralized road department will work under and be accountable to the supervisors.

But there is more to the unit system than just that. I do not believe that you, the taxpayers, want county supervisors who do little more than fix roads. You deserve much more.

- * Economic development
- * Public health

- * Veteran services
- * Hospitals
- * Libraries
- * Mental health services
- * Farm and home services
- * Solid waste disposal
- * Public ambulances
- * Water and sewers
- * Fire protection
- * Programs for the poor

Let's just look at one of those areas: Economic development.

There is no quick fix, no lottery ticket that is going to suddenly provide jobs and prosperity to the people of our counties.

I pledge to you that the state will do as much as possible to help, but the state cannot do it all. Counties must put together effective plans for local economic development, and then spend the time to make it work.

All the time some supervisors spend personally repairing roads that could just as well be maintained by a centralized road department under the unit system, they could be putting together and implementing an economic development plan that will bring jobs to the county.

The unit system of government would not affect supervisors' ability to govern. It would enhance their role as county leaders. They would still pass the budget, develop plans and policies and levy taxes.

The board of supervisors would decide how much money the centralized road department receives, and the board would decide on a road program to be undertaken by the centralized road department.

There is so much more than can be done in county government. I want to commend the Mississippi counties that already have gone to some form of the unit system.

The unit system is designed to help you. Please support it.

EMPLOYMENT RATE SHOWS SIGNS OF ECONOMIC GROWTH

The employment rate of the state of Mississippi is the lowest it has been in eight years.

Mississippi's unemployment rate for the month of May was 7.1 percent, down from April's rate of 7.3 percent.

In addition to unemployment being down to its lowest level in eight years, figures indicate that more people were employed in the month of May than ever before, according to Linda Ross Aldy, executive director of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

"The total active labor force is 1,151,700, which translates into 92.9 percent of the eligible workforce being employed. This represents the largest number of people ever employed in one single month in Mississippi," Aldy said.

Leading the way with the lowest unemployment figures was Lafayette County, which reported 3.2 percent unemployment. Reporting the highest figures for May was Greene County with 18 percent unemployment.

The unemployment rate for May 1987 was 9.9 percent, and since that time, there has been an increase of 16,000 jobs for non-manufacturing employment resulting in a total of 654,600 jobs. In manufacturing positions, the number of jobs increased by 6,500 to a total of 233,400.

It is encouraging to witness the growth of Mississippi's economy. There is certainly room for additional growth and, hopefully, the expansion will continue, but Mississippians must dedicate themselves to the cause of Mississippi's economic expansion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us

Citizen apathy is America's great weakness

June 27, 1988
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

We see many viewpoints depicted in Letters to the Editor.

However, I have never heard anyone bring to our attention the extremely important observation that 'love of one's country must not be confused with love for the government of that country.'

The Preamble of the Declaration of Independence, America's greatest and most enlightened document concerning freedom, states a great principle concerning Centralized Government which Americans need to understand.

It says in essence: "...whenver any form of government becomes destructive to the ends (of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness) it is the right of the people, nay it is their duty, to alter or abolish it and to provide new safeguards for their future security."

This is the principle which has kept America free for over 200 years.

Those of us who can look back to the days of the Great Depression in the 1920's, have seen our elected leaders change our form of government from a Constitutional Republic, to a Democracy Welfare State, and today we are hovering on the edge of a totalitarian one-world dictatorship.

In reality, we have not had an American government in Washington, D.C. for over 50 years, no matter whether Democrats or Republicans have been in power.

This is why we see so little change in foreign and domestic policies, even though the rhetoric of the two parties differs greatly.

While they talk differently, they have both been manipulated by the same shadow government which stands in the wings, pulling the strings which govern America.

In these 50 years, they have taken us into four disastrous wars, which have killed off over half a million of the cream of American manhood, while saddling this country with an unpayable debt.

All for the purpose of bringing peace and safety to the world, we have been told.

They have sold the American public on the idea that it has been our government which has been the only force which has stood against world communism, when in reality, on at least 18 major occasions since 1917, when the Soviet Union has been on the verge of economic collapse, it has been the taxes of hard-working Americans which have kept this nemesis of mankind afloat.

Great principles, like those found in the Declaration of Independence, often get pushed aside by incumbent politics, the lust for money and the power it brings.

Senate committee to consider bill on child care facilities

A State Senate committee will be called together this summer to consider making recommendations regarding legislation dealing with residential child care facilities.

Senator Bunky Huggins of Greenwood said that he has had several requests from members of the Public Health and Welfare Committee to hold a meeting to begin addressing problems such as those which arose recently at a South Mississippi residential home taken over by the State Department of Public Welfare.

"I have found that there is interest statewide from different church groups for the Legislature to look into this problem and possibly to set standards for these homes to go by so that we will not continue to have the state shutting down homes," Huggins said.

"I am not saying the home operators in these cases are

The more centralized and top-heavy government becomes, the less likely that government is to recognize the people's right and duty to alter it, or even abolish it.

The central government thus often finds itself at odds with the people and their hopes of fulfilling the American dream.

America has been no exception to this 'rule of government.'

Within years after our government began, as early as 1787, the central government began to suppress the very principles of freedom which first gave life to this country.

Today we see the phenomenon of the central government, as it uses unconstitutional methods to suppress its citizens.

While they cry freedom of expression, until they come into power, they use this liberty to reach the top, and then turn about and destroy this liberty.

Tyrants throughout the 6,000 years of written history have all used this method and fit this pattern.

If I am critical of government does that mean that I am disloyal to my country? Far from it! The true American spirit does not 'kowtow' to a government which is bent on destroying our freedom.

Passive wimps in government only encourage government bullies to be bullies.

If a person goes around acting like a slave, sure enough some slave master will appear to disenfranchise him.

The true American does not dutifully and blindly agree with governmental policies without first considering their merit. It is in fact our duty as good Americans to keep government in line.

We will not lose our freedom some morning at 3 a.m. when we answer a knock at the door to find a man with a star on his cap and a Tommy gun in his arms, who says: "Come with me to the concentration camp!"

No, we will lose these freedoms when we see things happening in local government, in our schools and churches which we know are wrong, and instead of doing anything about it, we sit back and say: "I'm only an individual, you know. Everybody knows you can't buck city hall!"

When enough decent Americans feel this way, we will lose this wonderful country of ours, and the freedom she has given us.

We will take her to the cemetery and bury her, and over her grave erect a headstone with this epitaph: "American freedom died, because good people in America didn't want to be bothered!"

We are very close to this point, whether you want to accept it or not. Think about it! Check out the facts! Then do something about it, for 'evil' succeeds when good men refuse to do anything to stop it!"

Sincerely,
Jack Mohr

Supervisors find jail's hot climate a new problem

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has found a hot new problem to deal with this summer--lack of air conditioning in the upstairs section of the Hancock County Justice Facility.

The upstairs houses the county jail, which consists of prisoner quarters, an exercise yard, Warden Jim Odom's office, a jailer's control booth and related hallways, dining areas and other facilities.

The board is concerned because there have been complaints about the heat in the upstairs section, which has no air-conditioning except for an individual unit in the office.

The jail was built in 1985 and does meet federal specifications that do not include air conditioning.

One of the complaints, made before hot weather set in, was presented to the board in a letter by Michael McCollister of Waveland, who also addressed the supervisors. McCollister expressed concern about prisoners' health.

Odom and one of the jailers, Gerald Necaise, addressed the board Thursday. Necaise presented a report on daily monitoring of the temperatures upstairs.

Temperatures of as high as 80 degrees have been recorded as late in the day as 8 p.m., Necaise said.

He said the recorded high is 92 degrees, which occurred during the past few days. That reading, however, may not be as hot as it really gets in the jail.

The jailer explained that the thermometer used to measure the temperature had to be placed where the prisoners can not tamper with it or damage it. The actual temperature inside the cells themselves can differ.

He said on the 92-degree day, it was probably closer to 100 in some of the cells holding "lock-down" prisoners, which include those inmates who do not have trusty status and must be kept in the locked area of the jail at all times.

Depending on location, the cells themselves are about seven to 10 degrees hotter than the rest of the facility, Necaise estimated.

Odom said there are currently 51 people on lock-down, but that includes a group of Immigration and Naturalization detainees who are not usually lock-down prisoners.

Odom said they will resume their trusty status "probably next week" after the federal authorities with jurisdiction over them complete some parole revocations and other procedures.

However, two of the federal detainees have asked for transfers to other facilities due to the heat.

McCollister had pointed out that heat can increase the problems that occur in a normally stressful situation. Necaise told the board that "there have been a few conflicts, punch-outs and people getting on each other's nerves" since the weather turned hot.

Necaise added that the prisoners are not the only people who suffer from the heat. The officer in the control booth, for example, is in a small, confined space that Necaise said receives its only air-conditioning through the unit downstairs.

He has said that the use of the downstairs air for the unventilated space does not really cool the booth, and told the board at a previous meeting that when he manned the booth he had to take two uniforms to work during the hot weather because he was "soaking wet from the heat" whenever he worked there.

He estimated that the booth temperature could get up to 110 degrees.

According to Odom, the ductwork for air conditioning is already in the jail, but the area is presently cooled by air induction, which means that air from outside is circulated through the building.

The jail has fans to circulate air that comes in from outside and the prisoners have access to ice, but jailers say that the fans are not helping very much.

"All we're doing is circulating hot air. We're moving 100-degree air through there," Necaise said.

He also told the board that the prisoners can not even use the exercise yard as a place to get a breeze, because it has 12-foot walls.

"They don't want to go out there anyway. Any breeze that would come in would be a hot one."

The previous board of supervisors decided to leave the upstairs air conditioning out of the construction contract for the building as a method of saving costs and stated at the time that air conditioning the jail did not seem to be the right thing to do while the county still had schools without air conditioning.

However, the downstairs air conditioning system was designed with its capacity based on having a system for both floors.

Odom said last week there was a problem with cooling the dispatcher's booth and some of the other sections of the downstairs.

The warden said an air conditioning technician called to look into the problem told him that the 10-ton system should be a 20-ton system if it is used for the downstairs alone, with no air conditioners upstairs. The 10 tons would be adequate if the upstairs area was also being cooled.

Board President and Beat Two Supervisor Ronald Cuevas asked if Odom and Necaise would seek information from Hancock Medical Center regarding the dangers of the heat in the jail and report back to the board.

They also asked Odom and the architect who designed the building, Fred Wagner of Bay St. Louis, to provide cost estimates on upstairs air conditioning.

One of the supervisors' concerns is the liability the county might have for any injury of a prisoner or jail personnel that could result from the high temperatures.

"If you have a person locked up and he has a heat stroke, air conditioning could cost a lot less than a lawsuit," interim Beat Four Supervisor Omer Haas said.

The next board meeting has been moved to Tuesday, July 5, due to the Fourth of July holiday.

Ole Miss Department of Journalism praised in national publication

The Department of Journalism at The University of Mississippi was the only Mid-South journalism program mentioned in a recent study of the nation's outstanding journalism schools.

Newsweek senior editor Jerrold K. Footlock writes that Ole Miss has developed an accomplished faculty "who give their students strong practical preparation" in his article "Eleven Exemplary Journalism Schools" in the spring 1988 issue of "Cannett Center Journal." No other journalism program in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi or Tennessee was mentioned in the article.

Ole Miss joined several other institutions as "close calls" that deserved mention.

The seven criteria used by

Footlock in his selections were: quality of teaching; quality of research; facilities; quality of education in the university at large; working experience available to students while they are in school; jobs for graduates, as measured by both "first job" opportunities and long-term career success; and the degree of respect that journalism faculty members command in their academic institution and from professional journalists.

Footlock spent the 1986-87 academic year as a Cannett Center fellow studying the relationship of journalism education to major news organizations.

Feline diseases are not for cats only

Just one hug given to console your sneezing cat could send you to the doctor—if your cat's infection is caused by Chlamydia psittaci.

According to a report published in the May issue of Cat Fancy magazine, this highly contagious organism, which produces cold-like symptoms in cats, can also cause conjunctivitis in humans.

"Outside of rabies, chlamydiosis is one of the most important infectious diseases spread from cats to humans," says Dr. Ted Rude, a veterinarian and feline disease specialist.

But feline chlamydiosis is not the only disease cats can pass on to humans, the magazine reports. Rabies poses another more serious threat to cats—and their owners.

In the United States each year, more cases of rabies are diagnosed in cats than in dogs. A cat can contract the disease if bitten by an infected animal, such as a skunk or raccoon, or by preying on an animal infected with the virus.

According to Cat Fancy, other common problems that pose risks of infection from cats to people are cat scratch fever, toxoplasmosis, intestinal parasites and ringworm.

Diseases that occur less frequently are salmonellosis, pasteurellosis, tuberculosis and tularemia—found rarely in domestic cats that receive good care.

Fortunately, most of these health problems can be avoided by just practicing good hygiene in your home and making sure your pet's current vaccination program includes protection against chlamydia and rabies.

For more information on preventing diseases that can infect you and your cat, contact your local veterinarian.

County's part in EPA repayment remains uncertain

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors and federal officials have not yet determined who should pay $192,000 for a 1985 toxic waste clean-up at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

The April 1985 clean-up occurred at a site abandoned several weeks earlier by Bergeon Marine Inc., which went bankrupt. It lasted about seven days and involved paint wastes, rust-proofing compounds, solvents, oil, grease and other chemicals containing metals. Some were explosive.

The property reverted to the county after the Bergeon departure.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, which paid the clean-up contractors out of its Superfund, turned the matter over to its cost recovery department to determine whether Bergeon officers, the county or both should repay the fund.

The U.S. Attorney's Office has now sent a letter to Bergeon officers and the board of supervisors asking for payment.

Board Attorney Gerald Gex is looking into the matter with Robert L. Genin, attorney for the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission. Port Bienville falls under the commission's jurisdiction but final approval for any commission action must come from the supervisors.

The county is contending that the responsibility for payment lies with those who served as Bergeon officers, who reported have stated that the county should pay.

Gex said there is a 1986 law stating that all parties involved are responsible and that actions to recover the clean-up costs must begin within three years.

That three years expired last month, and Gex has been unable to find a court ruling indicating whether or not the law is retroactive to apply to the 1985 case. The law itself carried no indication of retroactive application.

The county is attempting to settle the matter without litigation and has been granted 45 days to provide the U.S. Attorney's office with documentation showing that there is no liability on the county's part.

Some documents have already been sent, and the board has hired an additional attorney, Roger Wilder, to assist in the negotiations with the Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Attorney's office.

Slatten-McCurdy

The marriage of Miss Maury Pringle McCurdy and Mr. William Anthony Slatten Jr., both of New Orleans, was celebrated Saturday, June 4, at 7 o'clock in the evening at Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leo William Seal Jr. of Bay St. Louis and Mr. John Anderson McCurdy of Gulfport. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Anthony Slatten of New Orleans.

The Reverend David Johnson, The Reverend Bronson Bryant and The Reverend Gilbert Walker, C.M., brother of Escorted by Mr. Leo William Seal Jr., the bride wore a wedding gown of yards and yards of antique laces among which are Limerick lace, Pointe de Gauze and Brussels lace. The gown featured a fitted bodice with a full skirt and a cathedral train. The laces were fashioned over silk organza, hand-beaded with pearls and Austrian crystals.

A wreath of antique silk and organza blossoms with satin roses twisted with pearls attached to layers of silk illusion bordered with satin ribbons were fastened to a family-heirloom cathedral veil of Brussels lace.

The bride carried a formal cascade of gardenias, white bridal roses, stephanotis and denrobian orchids with flowing foliage and white yarrow.

Miss Elaine Friedrichs Jones of New Orleans served as maid of honor. Mrs. Chris Colan Frederickson of El Campo, Tex.

Hancock among least affected by drought

Rainfall better in nine counties

By Linda S. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Although some southern counties, including Hancock, can boost of average to above average rainfall to date, the drought is hitting most Mississippi counties equally hard.

The accompanying map indicates the percent of average rainfall experienced to date across the state.

Official gauge readings from the Delta Branch Experiment Station in Stoneville indicate that most of the state is experiencing one of the worst droughts in history with as little as 48 percent of its regular rainfall.

Those same readings are indicating that counties in the southern part of the state have had 100 to 112 percent of normal amount.

Pearl River County has received 107 percent of its normal average to date. County Agent Billie Denmark said those figures could be misleading since most that rain occurred early in the year.

"We are experiencing the drought just about as bad as any other county," Denmark said. "Our sandy soil just doesn't hold moisture as well as other soil types."

Denmark said soybeans are dying in the fields and the pastures are very weak in his county.

One of the hardest hit areas is Bolivar County, where farmers have not been able to pump from the Bogue Phalia and the Sunflower rivers for more than one month.

Assistant county agent Stephen Winters said about 30,000 acres of rice and a comparable amount of soybeans will be affected by the closing of the Bogue Phalia. More than 100 wells have been dug in Bolivar County to compensate for the loss of water sources, he said.

Lee County has received 48 to 56 percent of its normal amount of rainfall.

Jackie Courson, Lee County agent, said most of the rain fell in the county before April. Showers since the middle of April have been spotty.

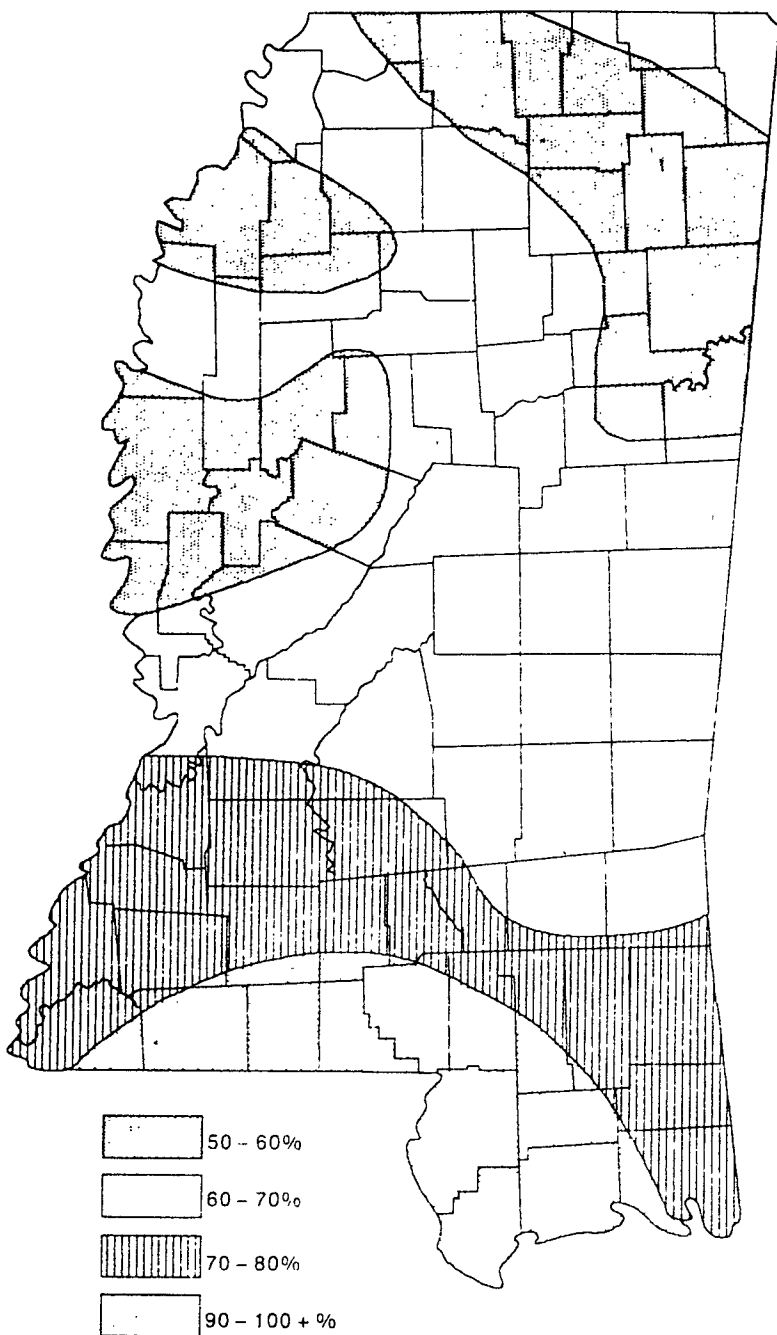

"We have two or three very critical areas of the county that have received only half of what other areas of the county have received," he said. "Our main concern right now is livestock. By feeding hay now, our winter supply will be desperate."

Kemper County Agent Perry

Brumfield shares the concern for a hay shortage this winter. "We'll be lucky to get one good cutting of hay," he said.

Reflections To your health

By Fr. Jerome LeDoux, SVD

I want to be healthy in body. I want to be of good genes, of sound limb, of good weight, of great energy, of enduring stamina, and free of chemical imbalance and the ravages of disease.

And guess what. All these good things which I want for my physical well-being, I wish as well for you.

I wish myself a clear, penetrating mind, a sharp memory, good judgment, a positive, strong will, accurate, deep insights, a vivid imagination, and the ability to blend various bits of information into a meaningful, vibrant body of practical knowledge.

As much as I wish all these gifts of the mind for myself, just as much do I wish all of them for you in your life.

I wish myself peace; peace in my body, free from afflictions and injuries; peace in my mind, undisturbed by the political and philosophical wranglings of the world; peace in my nerves, secure from the innumerable anxieties of most people; peace in my soul, whole in the belief that Jesus has washed my guilt in his blood.

These are the same things, the same peace of body, mind, emotions and soul which I wish for you, even if you are not my friend.

What I wish for myself, I wish for you in the same degree, to the same extent, and without any reservations, because you are my sibling in Jesus, made precious through his love for both of us.

I wish myself fulfillment in whatever I do on the physical, mental and spiritual levels. I want all my thoughts, goals, desires, words and activities to be so meaningful that I shall feel for sure that I am living my life to the full.

Yes, and what I wish for myself and my fulfillment, I wish just as ardently for you and your fulfillment.

On a par with fulfillment, I wish myself success in every one of my physical endeavors, of my mental ventures, and of my spiritual enterprises.

Frankly, I want the sweet smell of success to give my life an air of well-earned accomplishment.

I wish it for you too. May the same sweet smell of success cling to you and to everything you lay your mind and hands to.

More importantly, I want success in my human relations, especially those most personal relationships with the members of my family, with my relatives and with my friends.

That is also what I wish for you as you go through your day, attempting to find the keys to your own relationships.

I wish myself a meaningful challenging, exciting sojourn here on earth; one which keeps me eager to rise from bed in the morning, to give thanks to God, and to sally forth to meet the day.

Equally, what I wish for myself, I wish for you. I want your stay here to be every bit as meaningful and as exciting as mine.

I wish myself a life marked by contentment, happiness, which is the sum total of everything we have been taking about. Though that happiness may be hampered by suffering and disappointment, I nevertheless wish it to be very obvious in my life.

You deserve the same happiness which I wish for myself. So, what I wish for myself, I wish the very same for you.

Above and beyond everything else, I want my life to be molded, absorbed and directed by the fiery love of God's Holy Spirit. I wish that I be led by the example and the saving power of Jesus who will bring me through every danger to eternal life.

I wish you, my sibling in Jesus, these same blessings. There is nothing good which I want for myself which I do not want God to bestow on you with the same love, fullness and wonder.

AIDS information, test available in Gulfport

The Mississippi State Department of Health has taken two measures to cope with the anticipated increase in demand for AIDS information and AIDS virus testing following the recent federal mailing of a brochure about the disease to every household in the country.

Dr. Ed Thompson, state epidemiologist, said that the capacity of the statewide AIDS information line has been increased. The hotline is now open for 24 hours per day, he said, and more phone lines have been added. The hotline is answered by trained staff, he said.

Mississippi's toll-free AIDS information line number is 800-826-2961.

Also, additional public health nurses at county health departments have been trained to do AIDS virus testing and counseling, said Dr. Thompson.

"Blood tests for AIDS virus infection are available statewide at 33 health department clinics," he said.

The AIDS brochure was mailed to 106 million Americans from Washington. Most of the brochures have reached their destination already.

Dr. Thompson said that no new information is included in the brochure.

"The point of the brochure was to put into the hands of everybody the same information we'd previously been trying to distribute to special groups," he said.

The department's District IX HIV Counseling Testing Site is in the Harrison County Health Department, Broad Avenue at 15th Street.

Coordinator is Joyce Hall, RN. She can be reached at 863-1036.

Big B cites record sales

Big B, Inc. (OTC symbol Big B) reports it has again achieved record sales and earnings for its fiscal first quarter which ended May 7, 1988.

Net income rose 41.1 percent to $2,728,000 from $1,934,000 reported in the prior year and earnings per share rose to 37 cents from 25 cents.

Net income was bolstered by a one time credit of $503,000 resulting from the downward adjustment of previously deferred income taxes to current tax rates.

Sales for the quarter rose 10.3 percent to $70,165,000 from $63,627,000 previously. This increase resulted despite the loss of sales from the disposal by the company of its five high volume combination stores in the fourth quarter of the prior year.

The company's board of directors continued to express its confidence in the future by declaring a quarterly dividend increase to 4 cents per share payable June 17, 1988, to shareholders of record on June 6, 1988. This 33 percent increase in dividends is reflective of the Company's prior year's performance and current year expectations.

The company's expansion continued at a rapid pace during the first quarter

Once again we've doubled
the protection

$39

Now, Mobile Medic and Amserv protect your family all across the Gulf Coast and in the Hattiesburg area too.

Last year, Amserv and Mobile Medic joined forces to give your family year-round emergency ambulance protection all across the Gulf Coast.

This year, we've doubled our protection again. Thanks to a special agreement with AAA Ambulance of Hattiesburg, your $39 membership keeps your family protected throughout six counties in South Mississippi.

So if you're not a member, you now have twice as many reasons to join.

Join today, and your family will get ambulance service year-round, whenever you need it.

And the annual membership fee is still the same: Just $39.

Emergency care: No out-of-pocket expense to members...$425 to others.

A typical bill for ambulance service and emergency treatment runs around $425.

That's before you get your bills from the hospital, emergency room, or physician.

Your insurance or Medicare may only cover part of the cost. But your membership to Mobile Medic and Amserv covers the entire uninsured portion of your ambulance bill. You pay absolutely nothing above your membership fee.

And for an entire year, your membership covers you, your spouse, and all your unmarried children under 21 who live at home.

Why pay more for emergency care?

Mobile Medic and Amserv are the only ambulance services operating on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

We handle emergency medical treatment for everyone in our area, including non-members.

But while non-members pay for all treatment, supplies and ambulance service, our members pay no out-of-pocket expense above the annual $39 membership fee for local service.

If you call us only once in eleven years, your membership will have paid for itself. That's why it's smart to join now.

MOBILE MEDIC / AMSERV AREA

belong to either Mobile Medic or Amserv. And now that we've joined forces with AAA Ambulance, our members will be protected all across the Gulf Coast and in the Hattiesburg area as well. That's twice the protection, for one low price.

So we invite you to renew your membership now. Or to sign up with us for the first time, if you're not currently a member.

Grand Jury Report

Following is the complete text of the report issued Thursday by the Hancock County Grand Jury empaneled in January. A new Grand Jury will be seated this week.

In the Circuit Court of Hancock County, Mississippi, January, 1988 Term To the Honorable Jerry O. Terry, Circuit Judge, presiding:

We, the Grand Jury for January 1988 term of the court having been selected, sworn, and charged, submit the following final report:

We were empaneled January 11, 1988, and have considered 123 cases of which we returned 116 true bills, 1 no true bill, struck 1 from the docket, left 2 pending to be passed to the next Grand Jury and referred 3 to other courts.

The Grand Jury recommends that the July, 1988 Grand Jury be furnished copies of this report, and time for familiarization with the Handbook for Grand Jurors as their first order of business. We further urge that they closely review our specific recommendations and report accomplishments. County Supervisors and Administrations of the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are to be furnished copies of this report as well as U.S. Senators Cochran and Stennis, also Congressman Lott, State Senators Taylor and Tate, State Representatives Compretta and Holstein, and specifically the State Health Department, The Attorney General, The Law Enforcement Administration and The Director of Public Safety in the State of Mississippi. Sheriff's Office and Jail.

On January 20, 1988, the Grand Jury toured the Hancock County Jail. The jail was built on the ideas of other jails in the state. The jail was constructed mostly of concrete and steel; the mattresses are fireproof, and at the present, they are working on a fire plan for evaluation. The jail seems to be just about fireproof, but a top concern is a chemical spill since the train tracks are so close.

The jail can hold up to 100 inmates including women and juveniles. There are an actual 60-65 inmates. The Cuban inmates support the jail—meaning the State pays for each individual Cuban. The State pays enough for the maintenance of the jail, the staff, and some extras, all by just supporting the County with the pay for the Cubans.

The new jail seems to be doing well. There has been no break-outs in the new jail compared to numerous break-outs in the old. The County also has a farm, which the inmates work. The jail has cameras for the area, bullet-proof glass, a control point which is occupied 24 hours a day, phones for call out only, and an outside recreation area. The new jail also has a medical room, which means that inmates no longer have to be brought to hospital, also there is a staff doctor.

The jail is well maintained, very clean, but seems to be poorly ventilated—which seems to be the only actual problem.

The jail seems to have many good points including the structure, staff and how the inmates are used.

Hancock County Welfare Department

On January 20, 1988, we, the Grand Jury inspected the Hancock County Welfare Department and found the following things:

The building is in generally very poor condition. There are many safety/fire hazards that should be corrected. For example, poor wiring, no smoke detectors or sprinkler system, and in the winter with the gas space heaters running, no windows can be opened for ventilation because they are nailed shut. The building is very dirty, and in certain places there is standing water. The phone system and storage/filing system is very poor, it is very difficult to call in and confidential reports lay all around and piled up.

They are getting an on-line system computer which will eliminate at least 50 forms that they have to fill out. They are also getting central air/heat which will take care of the gas heat problem. They have extended their issuance for food stamp days, which cuts down on people standing in the lobby and outside the building.

The Welfare Department operates very well, but we feel that if the things mentioned above are corrected, it would make their job easier and better for them. We also recommend a feasibility study should be conducted to determine the cost efficiency of either remodeling or reconstructing the old Hancock County General Hospital or in the alternative construction of a new facility.

Stennis Air Field
Upon touring Stennis Air Field, no problems were noted or identified with the exception of a damaged weather/wind indicator. Questions were asked regarding control towers which were not present. We were told that the State, which would supply this, did not think it was feasible at this time.

The only recommendations the Grand Jury has at this time for the air field is to have the weather/wind indicator repaired as soon as possible to avoid an unnecessary accident. Hancock County Vocation Technical Center

We, the January, 1988, Grand Jury, toured the VoTech Center. It was an extremely well maintained school—very neat and clean. Mr. Al Bourgeois guided our tour through the different classes and shops. They all appeared to be well supplied (materials and equipment) and with adequate space for each project.

The instructors were present to answer any questions we had. They were courteous, knowledgeable and caring.

One problem that we noted was the fire extinguishers in the building trade shop. There were two extinguishers in the building trade shop. We feel that there should be more than two extinguishers available in that area and that a closer watch be kept on their readiness.

Hancock Medical Center

During an inspection tour of Hancock County facilities by the Grand Jury, a visit was made to the Hancock County Medical Center.

The Grand Jury arrived at 0940, and the Administrator, Mr. Phil Wolf, was notified of our presence. Mr. Wolf appeared at approximately 0957, stating he was unaware of our planned visit. He was, however, most gracious, and gave us a brief history of the hospital along with some facts and figures, and allowed questions to be raised from the jurors. He then took us on a tour of the facility.

Hancock Medical Center is a new facility which will celebrate its first anniversary on 2/23/88. It is a 60-bed hospital housed under 56,000 sq. ft., as opposed to the old 56-bed hospital housed under 26,000 sq. ft. Mr. Wolf stated that a good rule of thumb for adequate hospital space is 1,000 sq. ft. per hospital bed.

Mr. Wolf stated that the hospital's primary goal is to improve the quality of patient care, and that he personally tries to visit each and every patient at some time during their confinement to see if they are satisfied with their care.

The hospital has a combined ICU/CCU Unit with six beds, and maintains an average census of four. In addition to continuous Telemetry monitoring in the ICU/CCU Unit, there are four Telemetry beds designated on the Medical Unit, providing continuous monitoring of those patients' heart activity.

The hospital was found to be very clean and the hallways were clear. The fire evacuation plan is posted in appropriate areas as well as alarm boxes and fire extinguishers. It was brought to Mr. Wolf's attention by one of the Grand Jurors, who is also a fireman, that the hospital's fire alarm box which is wired directly to the fire station, does not always function properly. Mr. Wolf said he was unaware of this problem, and was glad it was brought to his attention, so the problem can be rectified. He stated that there is no law requiring this direct wiring, but that he chose to do so as an added safety precaution.

The emergency department seems to be well equipped, with five designated treatment areas. There is a full-time physician trained in Emergency Medicine in the emergency room at all times, supported by an R.N. There is some concern, however, that should several severely injured individuals be brought in for simultaneous treatment, there would not be adequate staff to handle it. On inquiry, the staff indicated that additional personnel could be readily available if needed.

There is additional concern that there is no neurosurgeon on staff. Patients with severe head injuries and other conditions requiring neurosurgical evaluation and intervention, need to be sent elsewhere.

It was brought to our attention that the volunteer workers provide a tremendous service to the medical center. We would like to offer our praises to these ladies for their unselfish donation of time. Our community is fortunate to have individuals such as these.

We, the January, 1988, Grand Jury, recommend the July 1988, Grand Jury, review the sale and purchase of the Hancock County Medical Center and any and all matters related thereto.

Hancock County Chancery Clerk

We, the Grand Jury of Hancock County, heard E. Michael Necaice, Chancery Clerk, disclose the financial picture of Hancock County.

He had examined the financial records and determined that the county is on a solid fiscal basis.

Hancock County Tax Collector/Assessor

We, the Grand Jury, heard Edward Murtagh, Hancock County Tax Collector/Assessor and Mr. Murtagh advised us of the following:

He has a very good staff and complimented all of them.

Beginning in 1984 reappraisals on Hancock County property began—this cost approximately one million dollars—but stated that in the long run, it should save the taxpayers money.

Murtagh's office is presently in the process of the 911 Emergency System for our county.

All programs are constantly being updated and because of this, the office can print some of their own tax forms.

Maps of the county are offered to the community for a small fee. These maps are aerial pictures, which were made during the reappraisal process. Hancock County Superintendent of Education

We, the Grand Jury, heard Terrell Randolph, Superintendent of Hancock County Schools, speak on the sixteen section land the school system owns. He told of how this land is leased out and the rents on these lands are used to financially support all areas of the school system. He also told of why land donated to the school board could not be used for the construction of a new county high school because of the low elevation.

We, the Grand Jury, greatly appreciate the good job and hard work the District Attorney and his staff are doing. We are wholeheartedly behind the stance they are taking towards the criminal element in this district and encourage all other public officials (law enforcement, judicial, etc.) to take a strong stand with them in fighting the criminal element.

Lady missionaries serving Waveland Ward area

Missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (LDS) have been a familiar sight in Hancock County and the Mississippi Gulf Coast for the past 100 years.

Young men, conservatively dressed, have been seen walking or riding bicycles along streets and roads in this area since before the turn of this century, but now something new has been added.

Lady missionaries. Two young ladies, Vivian Connor from the country of Ireland and Melanie Pamer from Mesa, Ariz. were recently assigned by the LDS Church to serve in areas of Hancock and Harrison counties which lie within the boundaries of the Waveland Ward of the Gulfport Stake.

While female missionaries are not new in the LDS missionary program, Sisters Connor and Palmer are the first to serve in this area in the memory of local members.

Lady missionaries presently account for approximately 20 percent of the more than 30,000 LDS missionaries serving voluntary missions throughout the world, and complete their assignments in 18 months compared to the two-year period served by male members.

Sister Connor will complete her mission in July. Sister Palmer has served six months of her commitment.

Anyone wishing to contact these missionaries may do so by calling 467-7875.

Mississippi Concert Hall to celebrate Fourth of July

'Mississippi Concert Hall' celebrates the Fourth of July with several selections of distinctly American music Sunday, July 3, at 1 p.m. on PRM.

The Reel Chaplin—A Symphonic Adventure features music composed by Charlie Chaplin for his American films. The piece is arranged by Eric Knight, who conducts the Tupelo Symphony Orchestra in this performance, which was recorded on January 23, 1988.

Next, 'Concert Hall' features three ragtime pieces. 'Excelsior Rag' by Joseph Lamb and 'Solace—A Mexican Serenade' and 'Elite Syncopations' by Scott Joplin are all performed by Giacomo Olica, chairman of the music department at Mississippi State University. This performance was recorded at the Fourth Annual Mississippi Piano Showcase at Mississippi State on June 19, 1988.

The 'Concert Hall's' final selection, Colman Pearce conducts Sinfonia Mississippi in a performance of Appalachian Spring by Aaron Copland.

'Mississippi Concert Hall' is produced by William Fulton.

Nursing placement directory available

The Mississippi Nurses' Association (MNA) is offering a free copy of its seventh annual career directory 'Preferred Placements 7' to graduating registered nurses, nurses entering practice in the state, and others interested in nursing careers.

Preferred Placements 7 gives important advice on nursing careers in a time of impending nurse shortages. The career directory includes articles on interviewing, nursing standards of practice, professionalism in nursing, medical records, and others.

"Now that the classroom work is over, MNA wants to help nursing graduates launch their career as professionals. We want them to add their opinions, ideas, and energy to the voice of registered nurses in this state. In addition, we feel the publication will be a benefit to nurses who wish to continue their formal education," said Faye Anderson, MNA president.

A copy of Preferred Placements 7 can be obtained by writing to Penny Roberts, Mississippi Nurses' Association, 135 Bounds Street, Jackson, MS 39206.

SAUCIER RECOGNIZED—Altra Mae Saucier, LPN, has been honored on her recent retirement from the U.S. Naval Home Hospital in Gulfport. Saucier, a lifelong resident of Bay St. Louis and the wife of Sidney "Wiggy" Saucier, received letters of commendation from C.T. Bringle, hospital administrator, and John L. Steckler, governor of the Naval Home. The letter from Bringle cited two incidences in which Dr. John G. Atwood, senior medical officer, reported that Saucier made immediate contributions to the well-being of specific individual patients in addition to her consistent, diligent attention to all patients in her care. Steckler's letter cited her "for a job extremely well done" and for "attention to detail on all occasions."

June Marriage Encounter weekend reported a success

BILOXI—The June Marriage Encounter Weekend was a great success, according to Marty and Diane St. Germain, one of the three team couples presenting the weekend.

Twenty couples who had been married from one to 39 years attended the weekend.

One of the participating couples described the weekend as "a chance to fall in love all over again."

"We rediscovered an excitement for one another that we thought was only for newly weds," stated another couple.

One couple married for 39 years only expressed regret that they had not experienced the weekend 20 years earlier.

Another couple said that they heard the weekend was good but they kept putting it off because they thought it was for couples with marital problems.

"I wish we hadn't waited so long, this weekend should be required for every married couple. We learned to communicate and share our feelings in such an intimate way. Our love has never been stronger."

Marriage Encounter is for any married couple who desires a richer and fuller life together, according to the St. Germaines.

"The weekend can make a good marriage a great marriage."

They describe the weekend as a personal experience between husband and wife that revitalizes a marriage by teaching a new communication technique.

This technique enables a couple to privately explore important areas of their relationship in a spirit of love and understanding.

Couples interested in finding out more about the Marriage Encounter weekend may contact Joe and Debbie Nastasi at 601-432-2233 (Biloxi).

Marriage Encounter weekends are sponsored every other month by the Gulf-Lake Community of World Wide Marriage Encounter, a non-profit organization. The next weekend will be Aug. 26-28 at the Biloxi Howard Johnson Hotel.

HUNGRY ANYONE? New York deli counterman Moishe Feurstein illustrates the concept of a hero sandwich (a.k.a. submarine, hoagie, po-boy, grinder, wedge) in a scene from the Peabody Award-winning documentary 'American Tongues.' The film is part of the public television showcase of nonfiction documentaries called 'P.O.V.' The new 10-part series, whose name comes from filmmaker slang for 'point-of-view,' premieres with 'American Tongues' and 'Acting Our Age' at 9 p.m., Tuesday, July 5, on Mississippi ETV.

'Concert Hall' features music by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms

Works by three of classical music's most famous composers—Bach, Beethoven and Brahms—are featured on the next edition of PRM's 'Mississippi Concert Hall' Thursday, July 7, at 9 a.m., with rebroadcast Sunday, July 10, at 1 p.m.

Johann Sebastian Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E Minor (Cathedral) is performed by organist Chris Brunt at St. Andrew's Episcopal Cathedral in Jackson. This performance was recorded Sept. 23, 1987.

Pianist Logan Skelton, originally from Biloxi, now residing in New York, performs Beethoven's Piano Sonata in A Major, Opus 2, Number 2, which was recorded June 23, 1988 at the Mississippi Piano Showcase at Mississippi State University.

Four songs by Johannes Brahms are performed by the University of Southern Mississippi Chorale, Marshall A. Hill conducting, with pianist Mae Traylor. This performance was recorded April 19, 1988, at the Main Street Methodist Church in Hattiesburg.

'Mississippi Concert Hall' is produced by William Fulton.
